

Re-Imagine Santa Fe Springs

2040 GENERAL PLAN

Planning Our Future

Do you have ideas to share about how Santa Fe Springs might look 20 years from now? Maybe even 40 years? The City invites you to participate in planning our future through the General Plan.

What is a General Plan?

The General Plan establishes the framework for analyzing and making decisions about new types of housing, businesses and jobs, a greater variety of places to shop and dine, City services, park improvements, reducing traffic congestion, community health, and other factors that affect the quality of life in Santa Fe Springs.

Why are we updating the General Plan?

The Santa Fe Springs General Plan was last updated nearly 25 years ago. The rapid pace of change in how we shop and travel and how businesses do business—combined with the demand for housing of all varieties—requires that we anticipate future change and that we shape how our community responds. Community input will provide the foundation for a successful General Plan.

How can you get involved?

City leaders want to hear from you about the most important issues to address and prioritize. Over the next twelve months, the General Plan team will host many activities and events — both virtual and in person— to provide opportunities for you to share your ideas.
